Why Caribbean Literary Festival?

The Caribbean Literary Festival (CALIFEST) aims to create an environment that celebrates the spirit and cultural heritage of the Caribbean and its people, and to bring an awareness to the literary contributions of the Caribbean community in Southern California.

We hope to build a community of readers with content that reflects their culture and heritage. It is also our hope that this festival will help strengthen our shared interest for a more inclusive community while facilitating a healthy discussions on cultural awareness, cultural diversity, cultural tolerance, and cultural understanding and acceptance.
